Car

When you are old and gray and full of sleep,
And nodding by the fire, take down this book,
And slowly read, and dream of the soft look
Your eyes had once, and of their shadows deep . . .

W.B. Yeats, 1892

TOWER 1977

Manhattanville College
Purchase, New York

Inside a crystal toy, and the snow is falling,
Make believe leaves flying,
True, we were somewhat protected.
This place, he said, is so isolated.

Walking the same paths to the same places,
They must have got to know your footfall,
Your fingers on the doorhandles.
"You go away and you leave us,
You leave us and you disappear."

And at night you, watching the lights come blinking on
The Whitestone Bridge,
Isolated out there as it is.
Maybe someone in some car, staring in this direction,
At someone else's momentary splendid isolation.

We are not afraid to say, yes, we have stayed awhile
Within a place.
The place itself will never let you go,
You'll be there, like the worn spots in the stones.
All of you.

You knew it was no toy glass dome,
And when you shake your older head,
Will you remember
What ?
Not the wall, but the view.
Not the times you were confused,
But the few things you understood.

Walking the same paths

to the same places,

They must have got to know . . .

your footfall

your fingers on the door handles,

you
watching the lights
come blinking on the Whitestone Bridge, isolated out there as it is.

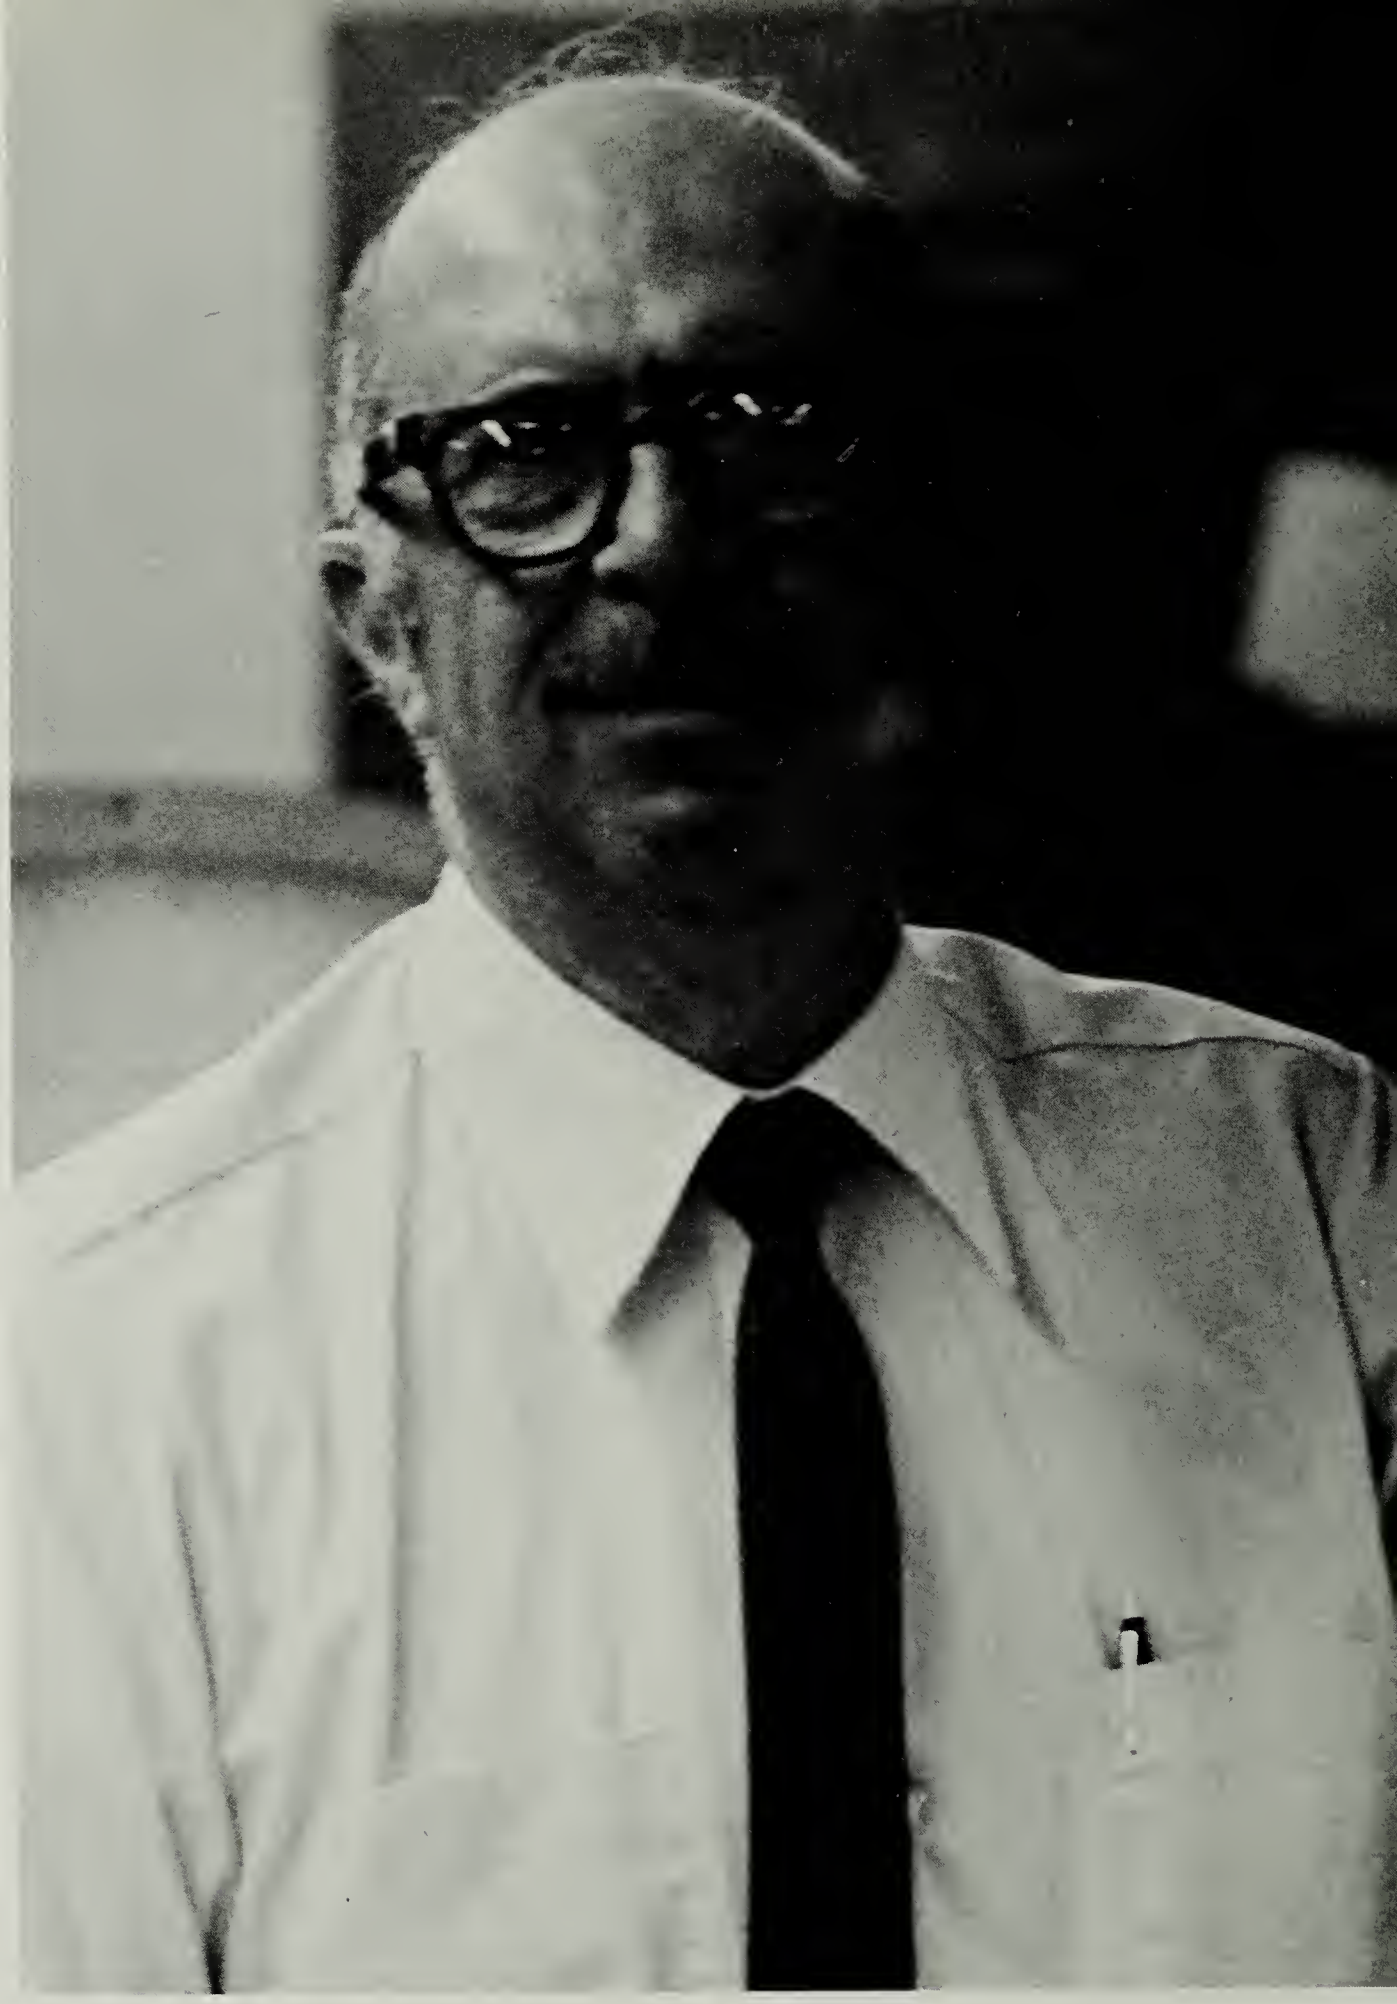
The place itself will never let you go . . .

And when you shake your older head will you remember

What?



Our book is dedicated to Joe, with love, because love is what he gives us.

The last light fades and drifts across the land—the low, long land, the sunny land of spires; the ghosts of evening tune again their lyres and wander singing in a plaintive band down the long corridors of trees; pale fires echo the night from tower top to tower; Oh, sleep that dreams, and dream that never tires, press from the petals of the lotus flower something of this to keep, the essence of an hour.

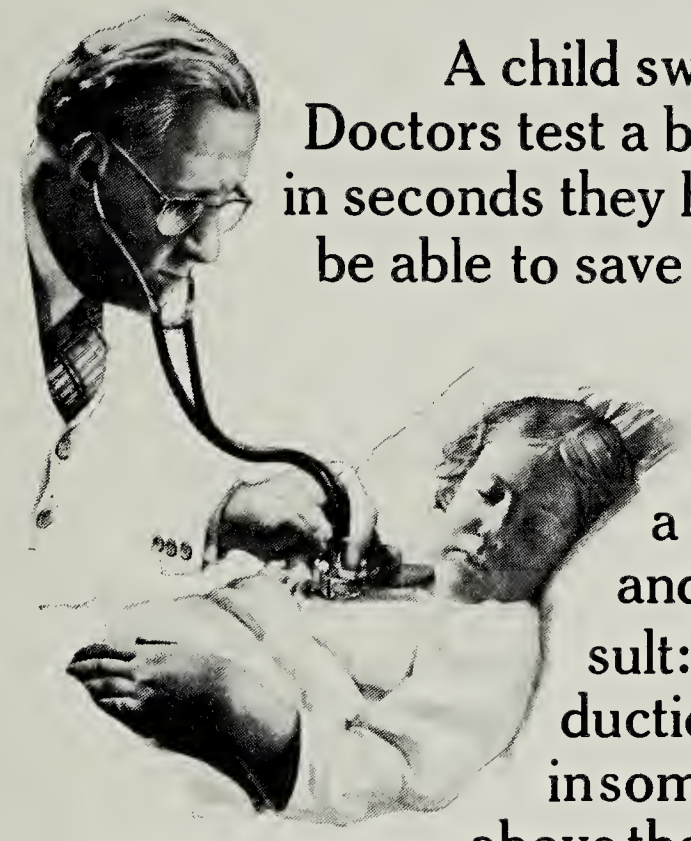
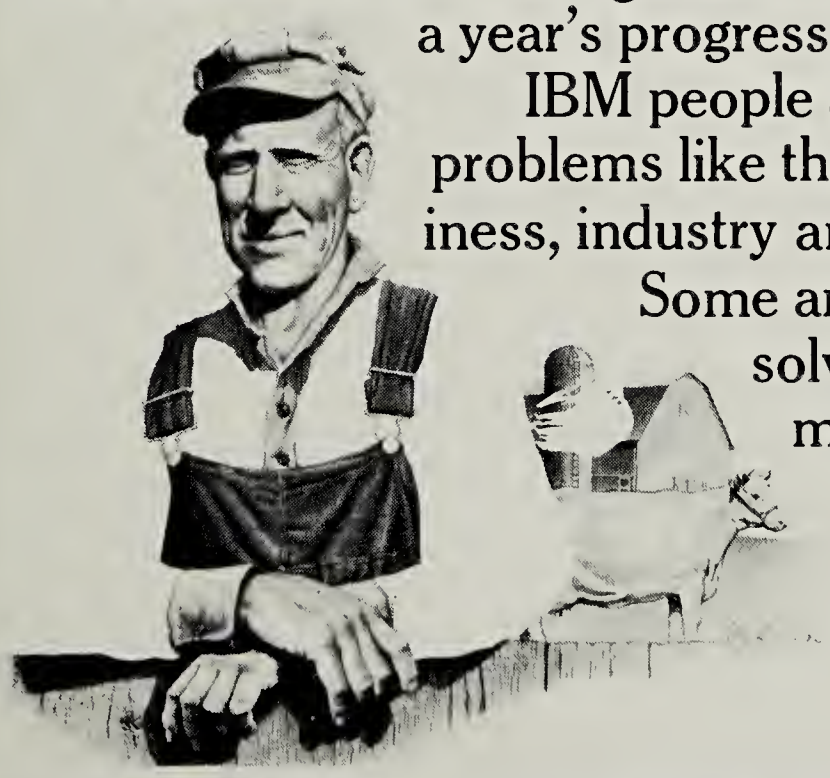
HELPING PEOPLE FIND THE ANSWERS.



A child swallows poison. But which poison? Doctors test a blood sample, using a computer, and in seconds they have the answer. An antidote that may be able to save the child is given.

Farmers want to increase the milk yield of their herds. They turn to a university's computer center for a scientific herd management and feeding program. The result: Their cows' annual production rises dramatically, in some cases to 25% above the national average.

A teacher must upgrade the language skills of her elementary school pupils. Her method? Individualized instruction using typewriters and dictation equipment. In three months, some of the children in her fifth grade class make nearly a year's progress.



IBM people and IBM products are at work on problems like these each day—and problems in business, industry and government, as well.

Some are solved with computers. Some are solved with typewriters or other equipment. Whatever the tool, the job is the same:

Helping people find the answers.
